Special School Visit

Kottayam: On September 6, 2024, third-year B.Sc Psychology students visited Asha Bhavan Special School as part of their educational outreach program. The visit aimed to provide practical exposure to the challenges faced by children with special needs and to explore various therapeutic approaches. The students interacted with the children and observed the personalized care from the school staff. To make the visit engaging, they organized activities such as dancing, singing, and games, which brought joy to the children and helped build connections. This experience allowed the students to apply their academic knowledge in a real-world context while deepening their understanding of empathy and inclusivity.

Street play conducted as part of creating awareness on mental health and suicide prevention

Kottayam: On Suicide Prevention Day, a street play titled "Voices of the Neglected" was performed by 13 passionate actors to raise awareness about mental health and suicide prevention. The event attracted a diverse audience in a public area, encouraging spontaneous participation. With a simple yet poignant set design, the performers delivered raw emotional portrayals of individuals facing mental health challenges, highlighting their struggles with societal pressures and isolation. The play emphasized that suicide can be prevented with timely intervention, compassion, and proper mental health resources. Actors engaged with the audience, sharing helpline information and encouraging support for those in need. The performance concluded with a unifying scene, symbolizing collective responsibility in addressing suicide. The audience responded with applause, and many remained to discuss the importance of open conversations about mental health.
